Trisomy 21			The calculated risk for Trisomy 21 (with nuchal translucency) is below the cut off, which indicates a low risk. After the result of the Trisomy 21 test (with NT) it is expected that among more than 10000 women with the same data, there is one woman with a trisomy 21 pregnancy. The calculated risk by PRISCA depends on the accuracy of the information provided by the referring physician. Please note that risk calculations are statistical approaches and have no diagnostic value! The patient combined risk presumes the NT measurement was done according to accepted guidelines (Prenat Diagn 18: 511-523 (1998)). The laboratory can not be hold responsible for their impact on the risk assessment ! Calculated risks have no diagnostic value!
The graph illustrates the risk of Trisomy 21 based on maternal age. The y-axis shows risk levels from 1:10 to 1:10000, and the x-axis shows ages from 13 to 49. A red area at the top indicates high risk, a yellow area in the middle indicates intermediate risk, and a green area at the bottom indicates low risk. A black vertical bar at age 27 shows the patient's risk is in the green (low risk) zone.
Trisomy 13/18 + NT
The calculated risk for trisomy 13/18 (with nuchal translucency) is < 1:10000, which represents a low risk.
